

Froggy is a clean, minimal portfolio template built for developers who want to showcase their work without unnecessary complexity. It focuses on clarity, performance, and structure making it easy to present projects, experience, and technical skills in a straightforward way. The template is designed to stay out of the way, letting your work speak for itself. It avoids heavy abstractions and over-engineered features, favoring simple components, readable layouts, and a flexible structure that can be adapted to different needs. Froggy is ideal for personal portfolios, lightweight project showcases, and developer-focused sites where simplicity, maintainability, and clarity matter more than flashy features.
